DETAILED ACTION

Response to Arguments

1. Applicant's arguments filed May 11, 2001 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive for the reasons set forth below.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains.. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

4. Claims 2-3, 8 and 12-38 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Yim et al., O'Leary et al. and WO 9639203 taken as a whole for the reasons of record.

Applicants assert that "the Examiner picks and chooses components at random from compositions described in three references and then combines them to reconstruct the compositions covered by the claims" In response to applicant's argument that the examiner's conclusion of obviousness is based upon improper hindsight reasoning, it must be recognized that any judgment on obviousness is in a sense necessarily a reconstruction based upon hindsight reasoning. But so long as it takes into account only knowledge which was within the level of ordinary skill at the time the claimed invention was made, and does not include knowledge gleaned only from the applicant's disclosure, such a reconstruction is proper. See In re McLaughlin, 443 F.2d 1392, 170 USPQ 209 (CCPA 1971). In the instant case, an analysis of Applicants' invention shows clearly that all of the components of Applicants' invention are known to be included in bone graft compositions for their individual and well known contributions to the success of said compositions.

O'Leary et al. discloses a flowable demineralized bone matrix powder for the treatment of bone defects that can contain other ingredients such as parenchymal cells, mesenchymal cells and growth factors. In order to change the thixotropic characteristics of the powder to retain the homogeneity of the composition, O'Leary et al. add a polymer matrix such as glycerol and/or a thickener such as carboxy methylcellulose

Yim et al. discloses a polymer matrix for the delivery of osteogenic proteins. Yim et al. includes a protein sequestering agent that is osteogenic or osteoconductive. Carboxymethylcellulose is disclosed as one of those agents. Yim also states that calcium sulfate, particularly calcium sulfate hemihydrate (plaster of paris) is well known to be included in a bone graft composition. Yim et al states at col. 2 lines 63-65, "adding a CSHS [(calcium sulfate hemihydrate-containing substance)] reduces setup time and provides improved moldability and consistency of the resulting [bone inducing] formulation." Calcium sulfate provides calcium to the osteoblasts at the site of bone repair for production of the inorganic component of bone tissue.

Therefore, both references include components of the claimed invention and both references explain the contributions of these components to a bone graft composition. There is no suggestion or expectation that the addition of calcium sulfate to the composition of O'Leary would render it ineffective for the intended purpose; to the contrary, the addition of the calcium sulfate is disclosed as being appropriate for use in bone graft compositions. While none of the references individually disclose the combination of the two components of the claimed composition, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to combine two compositions, each of which is taught by the prior art to be useful for the same purpose in order to form a third composition that is to be used for the exact same purpose. The idea of combining these compositions flows logically from their having been individually taught in the prior art. In re Kerkhoven, 626 F.2d 846, 205 USPQ 1069 (CCPA 1980). Further, applicant's arguments are directed towards the references individually, and one cannot show nonobviousness by attacking references individually where the rejections are based on combinations of references. See In re Keller, 642 F.2d 413, 208 USPQ 871 (CCPA 1981); In re Merck & Co., 800 F.2d 1091, 231 USPQ 375 (Fed. Cir. 1986).

Conclusion

5. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
